LET'S NURTURE THE CHILD IN EACH OF US...

Children are curious, creative and imaginative. They embrace discovery and wonder. They are natural learners. These are precious qualities that should be nurtured and stimulated throughout life. Lifelong creativity, imagination and learning are stimulated by playful activities that encourage hands-on and minds-on creation, fun, togetherness, and the sharing of ideas.

People who have a childlike urge to learn are thus best equipped to thrive in a challenging and changing world, and to become the builders of the future. That's why we have made it our mission to nurture the child in each of us. And we'll do this by providing quality products and experiences that stimulate creativity, imagination, fun and learning.

touch, grasp it all...

Nourish those tender senses
All five senses are ready for use from the moment your baby is born — if not before. And your loving care, smiles and affection bring them on in the most natural way. But you can give your baby’s earliest sensory experiences extra nourishment through cheerful colours and patterns, soft shapes and materials, gentle, rhythmic music, and with toys created to develop just as rapidly as your baby.

Your new baby will love gazing at the friendly faces and warm colours. Later, there’s the fun of testing itchy gums on the smooth pieces, and shaking them to hear the rattling noises. Ideal for the cot, car and pram.

Encourage your insatiable natural learner

Your child is no longer a small baby – your child is ready to learn how to stand up and walk, think, and talk. Your child learns from anything and anyone. Your child absorbs impressions and expressions at lightning speed from you and other carers, brothers, sisters, and other toddlers.

Your child is beginning to understand similarities and differences, matching and sorting, action and reaction. So why not give your child tools that will stimulate inborn curiosity and the desire to learn new skills and abilities?

Cute, interactive butterfly comes to life as you and your baby play with it. Lights flash and different sounds are activated when bricks are placed on the butterfly. The butterfly's different responses motivate your child to try new combinations and teaches action/reaction and eye-hand coordination.

Creating universes for role-play

Building familiar things from real life is fun—and so is playing together. Having a part to play is also great: being the engineer who builds the railway and everything around it; the shunter who moves the wagons; the guard who sends the train off; the crossing keeper who raises and lowers the barriers; the railway dispatcher who decides whether to go right or left, through the tunnel or stop at the station; or the operator who helps to decide what is going to happen next!

A complete train world for the most imaginative toddlers! Set includes enough track for two circuits, easy-to-switch points, a motorised train with wagons, a crossing, and an overhead grain hopper. Years of fun for everyone.

Encourage imaginative and social interaction
Little girls love role-play from their own everyday lives and they love making up games based on their own observations. They also sort out quite a bit when they play families. But very few dolls are of a size that little two-year-old hands can handle – or they look like fashion queens your little girl doesn’t exactly need to idolize yet.

Easy to dress and undress, nurse and love …
Check out the new LEGO® DUPLO® Dolls, babies and accessories, especially crafted for small hands and big imaginations. There are four LEGO DUPLO® Dolls to choose from, any of which your child will kiss and hug, feed and nurse, praise and scold – and perhaps build a LEGO DUPLO® house for?

Stimulate interpretation and a wide range of expression

Girls and boys need to figure out and express their experiences of a world that’s constantly expanding, and to experiment with what they pick up at home, on television, when they’re out, or on holiday.
So give them the opportunity to express themselves creatively. Help them to apply their imaginations to what they see, to rewrite the plot, to interpret and renew their experience of the world about them. Give them the chance to mould new stories, new actions and interactions every single day. To learn while they play … and why not in the company of other infants, too?
