Four worlds of playful learning for children aged 0-4

discovering who I am and what I can do

learning to share and

expressing my personality and creativity

interact with others

Every child is born with the potential to develop and to learn. At LEGO Company we believe that by nurturing this gift through play, we can encourage the learning process. That's why we created LEGO® EXPLORE and the Complete Discovery System – the world's first fully integrated play system for infant and pre-school children. Founded on the guiding principle that every child is unique, and developed with input from leading child development specialists, the Complete Discovery System encourages growth and learning via four distinct 'worlds'.

The toys within these worlds will inspire, stimulate and challenge your child's urge to explore through play at different stages in their natural development, allowing you to share with them in the joy of discovery – while having a serious amount of fun along the way!

Look what I can do!

explore being me - discovering who I am and what I can do

For every child, finding out what it means to 'be me' involves learning a whole set of physical and mental skills, many of which continue to develop throughout childhood. While you can't speed up physical development, you can build confidence and offer exciting opportunities for practising new skills. In the world of explore being me, you'll find toys which encourage motor skills, improve hand eye co-ordination and enhance body control. Through play, your child will gain a greater understanding of "Who I am" and "What I can do".

explore together - learning to share and interact with others

Children are primed from birth to develop relationships. Some of the most important lessons to learn include how to interact with others, to share and take turns. Make-believe role-plays are great ways to examine different social set-ups. In the world of explore together you'll find toys which encourage your child to build relationships and to interact with friends and siblings. Whether they play by themselves or with others, children will love the opportunity to develop their social skills.

explore logic - understanding how things work

A baby who discovers that shaking a rattle makes a rattling sound has entered the world of explore logic – a world inhabited by little scientists who want to investigate everything around them.

This baby will soon turn into a toddler who starts every sentence with "why" and needs to understand how everything works. At the heart of explore logic is the recognition of your child's curiosity about the world and the way things work. Toys from this world will prompt your child to ask questions and develop powers of reasoning – from differentiating shapes and colours to understanding the concept of cause and effect. Give children the opportunity to investigate in this way and they'll learn to relish new experiences and rise to every challenge.
