

For children from 18 months

18 months old – and playing with LEGO bricks begins. Not the standard size bricks, but ones which are twice as big. So they are easy for small fingers to grasp: LEGO Nursery Bricks.

In order to keep up with the rapid development of children between 18 months to 3 years the LEGO Nursery Bricks programme has been increased with some exciting new boxes. They are all about things a child experiences in its own small world.

From 3 years

From about 3 years old the best start to a LEGO collection is a Basic Set. These contain a good selection of bricks in different sizes and colours plus such things as windows, doors, shutters, trees, and wheels. Children create models from their own imagination using the pictures on the box to give them ideas. For children who have some experience of building with Basic Sets, the next natural step is to the Model Sets designed to build particular things, usually from simple building plans. Children will not just build with the contents of the new box but will use all the LEGO bricks they already have to build even more imaginative things. So remember to give a new box now and then to stimulate fresh creative activity.

LEGO® Spares Service

This service is to help you if you lose a special part or want an extra one without wishing to buy a complete set.

There are so many components in the LEGO range that we cannot offer them all but here is a selection of the ones you are most likely to want.

Please note that this service applies only to items shown. We regret we cannot supply complete sets. These can only be purchased from toy retailers in the normal way. But if you specially need pieces not shown here please write to us and we will help if we can.

The Spares Service applies to U.K. and Ireland only. The prices include post and packing for 1977 only and while every effort will be made to hold these prices we reserve the right to change them should circumstances demand it.

Please use the special order form here. →

What can LEGO® do for your child?

Of course the most important thing about LEGO bricks is that they amuse children. It is a toy. But it is a toy which changes in the children's hands as their ideas change and develop. A house becomes a car, a car becomes a lion, a lion becomes a clown.

And if you cannot see it is a clown it does not matter. Your child can see it, and tells you through a LEGO model about an experience he has had. It is an important part of LEGO play that children of all ages use the bricks to express what interests them - what they think, feel, and wish for.

Parents who watch what is built with LEGO will learn a lot about the things that are going on inside their children.

That's what LEGO can do for parents.

LEGO bricks do not make demands on children. Everybody can play with them in their own way. On the other hand children make demands on LEGO bricks as they become more experienced. LEGO has provided for this in its new programme matched to stages of development and interests of all age groups. By using the age marking as guidance it is possible to get a LEGO collection which grows with the child and holds the attention for hours on end - year after year.
